

Task : Look carefully at the image of the front cover

For summer 2, we will be listening to and reading extracts from The Hunger Games, by Suzanne Collins. We will provide extracts to help you with your work but you may also want to listen to the audiobook which is available on the link below:

Some of you may have read 'The Hunger Games' already but that's ok, you can still complete this activity!

- 1) Think carefully about the title, 'The Hunger Games' what does the word hunger mean to you? What does the word games mean to you? Why might the author have used these two words in the title?
- 2) What images can you see on the front cover? Record at least 3 things, then describe what they suggest about the story.
- 3) The Illustrator of the cover has chosen to use mainly black white and grey with splashes of bright red, why might they have done this?
- 4) EXT: Write a blurb for the book based on your predictions. You can make up your own characters and events or use what you already know about 'The Hunger Games'.

The images on the front cover tell me that the story is about...

I think the illustrator chose to include splashes of red because...

The title of the book tells me that...
