Canonbury a role model for Sports

This week at Canonbury, leaders and teachers from 11 Islington schools visited us to watch Karl Beckford model a sports lesson and to ask Karl and Patrick about how we encourage enthusiasm and excellence in sport and PE. This came about because Mark Carter, a sports consultant, identified that at Canonbury sport has high status and is enjoyed equally by all children. We shared our secrets and how Karl is training teachers in delivering PE lessons

Story Jars

World Book Day means more than dressing up – this year children had the opportunity to recreate a story in a jar, with some magnificent results. Just look at the range of exciting jars from year 1 Apollo, and 6 Hera, celebrating a range of stories – thank you all for celebrating books and inspiring us to read!

From the Headteacher

No sooner has World Book Day ended than Science Week begins!

Aysha and Rhiannon, our science leaders, with Calvin, our gardener, have organised for every class to learn about plants and take part in some planting in the garden. It's a big project that will be happening on the next two Mondays – and it's at the right time, as Spring has definitely sprung!

Speaking of seasons, it seems to be the season for sports success.

Following on from the Swimming Gala shield, our Year 5 and 6 Girls football team have earned a place in the national finals that takes place in Watford in May. Amazing!

Next week we are welcoming everyone in for Parent meetings and many classes have Parent Workshop Assemblies coming up where you can talk to your child and their class about their learning and join in with some of the activities they have been doing in class. I look forward to seeing parents in school over the next few weeks.
