Story time in Spanish: “Goos la ballena” (Goh-ohs, the whale)

This is a legend from Patagonia-Argentina by the Tehuelches tribe.

As many of you already know I come from Argentina. I grew up listening to Latin American legends and this week I would like to share one of my favourites with you! Goos (Goh-os) is what the Tehuelches named the whale before becoming a whale. We say La ballena for whale in Spanish. Guess what the story is about? If you are curious to know, send me a message via class dojo and I’ll share the translation with you. You may like to research about the Tehuelches too?.
